

How to make a Tudor house

You will need:

- A large box
- A small box
- Glue
- Masking tape
- Scissors
- A ruler
- 2 pieces of A4 card or 1 A3
- White paint
- Black card

1

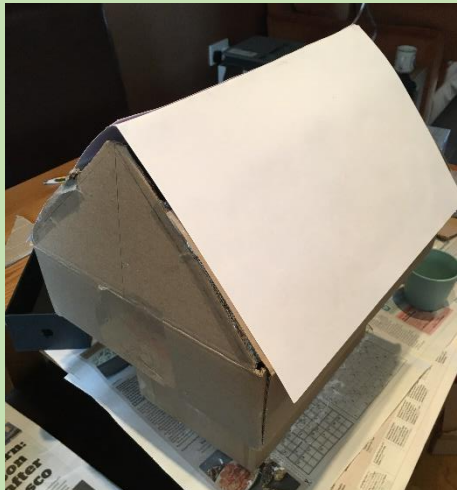

Firstly, place the slightly larger box on top of the small one. When in position, stick them together.

2

Secondly, accurately measure the sides of the larger box to create triangles. It's important the measurements are the same on both sides. This is how the roof will be formed.

3

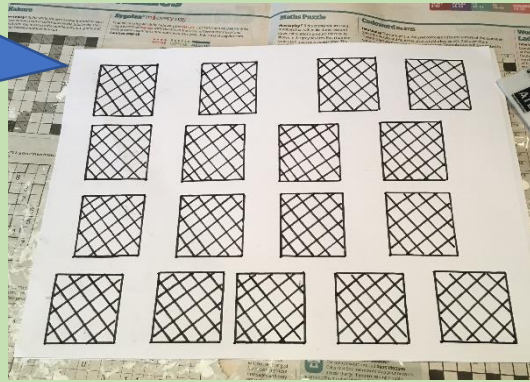

Now, stick or tape your white card onto to the top box to form your roof. Trim as required and allow the paper to slightly overhang at the sides.

4

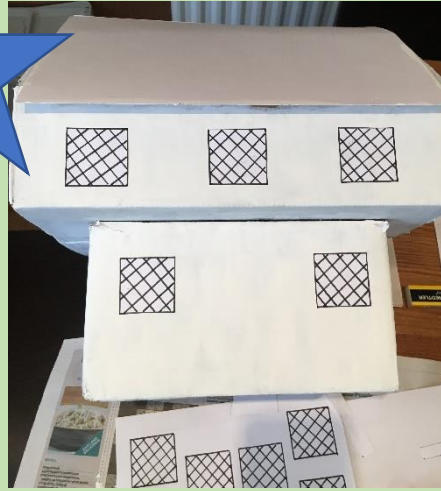

The next step is to paint the boxes white. You may need to do two coats of paint! Wait a few minutes for this to dry.

5

Measure accurately and draw 15-20 small squares. Draw overlapping lines to create the window effect. A little bit like crosshatching!

6

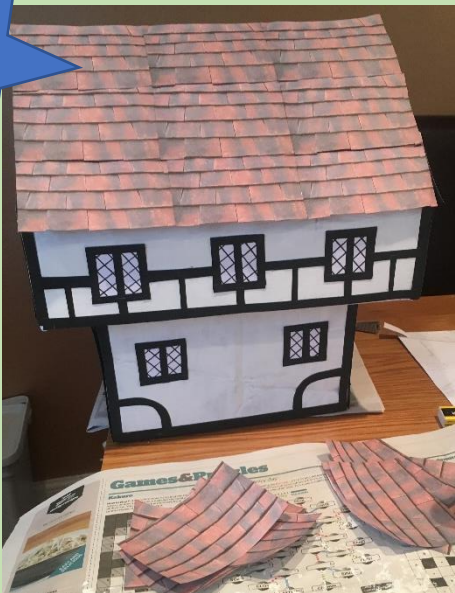

Position and stick on the windows!

7

Using your black card, measure and cut out small strips to form your window frames. Once in position, stick them down.

8

To create the exposed framework, you will again need your black card. Look closely at how I have positioned mine. Feel free to position yours differently!

To finish the roof, I printed off some tile patterns. I then cut and stuck them in place. You could always make your own!

The final step is to create and stick on the door. I didn't make a chimney, so if you are feeling particularly crafty you could also add this on.
